INFORMATION SECURITY STAFF AWARENESS

Reduce your risk exposure and protect yourself

Why do Information Security Awareness for staff?

More than 44% of Aussies are not concerned about other people obtaining or using their credit/debit card details and unauthorised access to or misuse of their personal information (Unisys Index Survey 2012). Are you one of them?

Lack of information security awareness, the complexity of the vulnerabilities, threats and its fast growth is causing Australian organisation and homes, serious losses, both financial and reputational. Nearly half a million credit card details stolen from a small business office network resulted into $25 million in fraudulent transactions (CRN news - Aug 2012). Is your organisation a victim of such security breach?

Recent events have often erroneously attributed to technology issues, and while technology is one of the key components to better information security, equal attention needs to be paid to people and organisations, culture and processes.

Employees across the globe make simple mistakes, which expose information based assets that harm organisations. A robust awareness program is crucial to protect your most valuable information/data assets. With appropriate awareness training, organisations can enlist the assistance of their employees to mitigate risks.
